

SUMMARY OF PROPOSED COMMITTEE DRAFT:

BILL 43 (2021) RELATING TO AMPLIFIED SOUND IN WAIKIKI.

The PROPOSED CD1 makes the following amendments:

A. In SECTION 1 of the bill:

1. Adds the purpose of protecting public health and safety; and
2. Adds new findings (3) through (6) in support of the sound level restrictions, as follows and renumbers subsequent findings accordingly:
  - "(3) Disturbing, excessive, or offensive noise interferes with a person's right to enjoy life and property and is detrimental to the public health and safety;
  - (4) The State of Hawaii Community Noise Control Code (Hawaii Administrative Rules, Section 11-46-4), establishes the maximum permissible sound level from stationary sources for all zoning districts of 70 decibels;
  - (5) Accounting for ambient street noise in Waikiki, uninvited noises above 80 decibels are potentially annoying and may be harmful to listeners; [and]
  - (6) Limiting amplified sound from public sidewalks to 80 decibels at and beyond 30 feet from the sound source during night hours would benefit Waikiki residents and visitors by preventing noise disturbances that could adversely affect their health, welfare, and privacy."

B. In SECTION 2 of the bill:

1. Amends the definition of "noise disturbance" to include any sound that "[e]xceeds 80 decibels, measured from a distance of 30 feet from the sound amplifier."

A BILL FOR AN ORDINANCE

RELATING TO AMPLIFIED SOUND IN WAIKIKI.

BE IT ORDAINED by the People of the City and County of Honolulu:

SECTION 1. Purpose and findings. The purpose of this ordinance is to preserve the tranquility of Waikiki against noise disturbances by regulating amplified sound from public property in that area.

The Council finds that:

- (1) Waikiki is a permanent home for thousands of local residents and a temporary home to hundreds of thousands of Oahu visitors every year. Both these residents and visitors have a reasonable expectation of privacy in, and of the enjoyment of, their homes (whether temporary or permanent);
- (2) As a densely inhabited and bustling area, Waikiki experiences street and other white noise; however, such noise is different from the excessively loud amplified sounds emanating from public sidewalks that can be heard by Waikiki residents and visitors within their homes at all times of the day and night;
- (3) Disturbing, excessive, or offensive noise interferes with a person's right to enjoy life and property and is detrimental to the public health and safety;
- (4) The State of Hawaii Community Noise Control Code (Hawaii Administrative Rules, Section 11-46-4), establishes the maximum permissible sound level from stationary sources for all zoning districts of 70 decibels;
- (5) Accounting for ambient street noise in Waikiki, uninvited noises above 80 decibels are potentially annoying and may be harmful to listeners;
- (6) Limiting amplified sound from public sidewalks to 80 decibels at and beyond 30 feet from the sound source during night hours would benefit Waikiki residents and visitors by preventing noise disturbances that could adversely affect their health, welfare, and privacy;

- (7) The First Amendment right to freedom of speech is a hallmark of our constitutional protections. This cherished freedom, however, does and should have limits. A person's right to free speech must be balanced with the right of the recipient not to listen. This concept, which is often referred to as the "captive audience" doctrine, was first recognized by the United States Supreme Court ("Supreme Court") in Kovacs v. Cooper, 336 U.S. 77 (1949). In Kovacs, the Supreme Court upheld the conviction of a person violating an ordinance that prohibited the use of sound trucks that emitted "loud and raucous" noises on city streets, thus establishing the rights of the intended recipients of protected speech to avoid having speech forced upon them;
- (8) The Supreme Court has made it clear that a city may appropriately regulate amplified sound as long as the regulation is content-neutral, narrowly tailored to promote a significant governmental interest, and leaves open ample alternative channels of expression. Ward v. Rock Against Racism, 491 U.S. 781, 791 (1989). Reasonable municipal ordinances regulating amplified sound have been upheld by courts throughout the United States. See: LaVelle v. City of Las Vegas, Nevada, 447 F. Supp. 3d 1015 (D. Nev. 2020); Rosenbaum v. City and County of San Francisco, 484 F.3d 1142 (9th Cir. 2007); and Nylen v. City of Grand Rapids, 475 F. Supp. 3d 744 (W.D. Mich. 2019); and
- (9) It is necessary to reasonably regulate the use of sound-amplifying devices on public sidewalks in Waikiki in order to protect the peace, tranquility, and health of Waikiki residents and visitors and to safeguard their constitutional rights to privacy and freedom from having excessively loud amplified sounds forced upon them in their homes and visitor accommodations.
