Comments: Let's keep the tourist in Waikiki or tour Hale'iwa, Dole Pineapple, etc. Take them on a shark tour. Most tourist are thrilled with the iconic blue waters of Waikiki. We don't need hundreds of additional bodies on our local rural beaches polluting the waters with their sunscreen & poisoning our reefs. Let's keep the country , country. Preserve our oceans and way of life. Take them to PCC , Hale'iwa, go grab shave ice, but don't over crowd our local beaches.

Comments: Too many huge groups of tourists being dropped off at our community beaches leaving their trash around and their sunscreen ruining our reefs. We have just enough room at these beaches for our local families who live on our side. Take the tourists around the island in your busses to look at stuff but let them swim in front of their hotels in Waikiki.

Comments: We need to protect the natural resources of Hawaii. I swam in the ocean for 14 years and saw many tourists come and go. So took rocks and threw them at seals resting on the beach. I got out of the water and told them they could not do that.

Comments: I have lived near and used this beach, Kokololio(Kakela)Beach Park for well over 50yrs, celebrating 3 and 4 generations of family, friends, and special visitors. Now I use and care for it on an almost daily basis for swimming, refreshment, and meeting with old friends. I hate to see it abused by unwelcomed crowds of folks who don't care for its health and well-being, its history, and for the neighboring 'ohana. Please help us preserve this special place for our future generations' enjoyment. Don't let this treasure be destroyed for the sake of tourism. They have many places already well established for their purposes of entertainment. It's not out here in Hau'ula. Mahalo.

Comments: Kekela (Kokololio) Beach Park needs to be protected from over use. Hundreds of people daily is too much for Kekela to handle when it's usually a few dozens during the week and occasionally over about two to three hundred when special events are happening.

When our residents can't have a family gathering without tourists walking through their gathering there is a big problem!

Please stop tourists (i.e. tour companies) from overrunning Kekela (Kokololio)!!
