Kai E. White

Historic Preservation Specialist, SOI Architectural Historian

Ms. Kai White is an Architectural Historian based in Honolulu, Hawaii on the island of O'ahu. She has 15 years of experience as a certified historic preservation specialist, working in Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Colorado, and remotely supporting project work in California and Texas. As a Secretary of the Interior Standards (SOI) qualified architectural historian and a recognized architectural historian under Hawai'i Administrative Rules §13-281-5, Ms. White reviews plans and reports, conducts research and writes historic context, and coordinates government/stakeholder communication to facilitate section 106 and chapter 6E compliance. While pursuing her MA in American Studies at University of Hawaii at Manoa, Ms. White co-authored a photographic history of Waikiki's natural and built environment: <https://www.arcadiapublishing.com/series/images-of-america-book-series?searchText=waikiki>. Upon completion of her MA in American Studies, including a certificate in Historic Preservation, Ms. White worked in Colorado for two years at Colorado Preservation Inc. and for CEMML at CSU. Returning to Hawaii in 2010, she took a GS-9 Historian position at Hawaii Volcanoes National Park. Her resume includes successful National Register Nominations, HALS, CLAs, a CLI and an ICRMP for the Army Garrison of Hawaii. The Kilauea Lodge, a National Register Property listed by Ms. White in 2012, was approved by the National Park Service Technical Preservation Services office for the Federal Rehabilitation Tax Credit program in 2019. At SWCA Environmental Consulting she conducted Section 106 compliance in Hawaii and remotely for their Pasadena, CA office. As the first architectural historian for SWCA on O'ahu, Ms. White worked within a business development team of archaeologists, biologists, and architectural historians to expand SWCA's projects in the built environment. After experiencing Hurricane Irma, while on vacation in Puerto Rico in 2017 and returning to the island 5 months after Hurricane Maria, Ms. White became involved in recovery efforts through FEMA contractors. This led to an opportunity to become a FEMA reservist in 2019. In 2020, she joined FEMA Core full time in the Environmental Historic Preservation division as an SOI certified architectural historian.
