  - (i) The same person that owned the property before 2024; and

BILL 46 (2024), CD2 _____

PROPOSED

A BILL FOR AN ORDINANCE

---

RELATING TO REAL PROPERTY TAXATION.

BE IT ORDAINED by the People of the City and County of Honolulu:

SECTION 1. Purpose. The purpose of this ordinance is to address the taxation of vacant residential properties in the City and County of Honolulu ("City").

This ordinance establishes a new real property tax classification of "residential E" for certain properties, including residential properties that are vacant or not likely to be long-term residences, to be taxed at a rate intended to help address the City's lack of affordable housing crisis that arises from inadequate housing supply and inadequate funding to address these problems.

Property owners in the State of Hawai'i ("State") have among the lowest property taxes of property owners in any state in the nation, and funds for programs that address affordable housing are limited. The City has one of the nation's highest housing costs, with the median cost for a single-family home exceeding $1,000,000, as of December 2023. The 2020 U.S. Census reports that the City has a housing vacancy rate of 9.2 percent, with 34,253 housing units unoccupied. A 2024 study by Demographia International Housing Affordability ranks Honolulu as having the third worst "impossibly unaffordable" housing in the United States and the 89th worst out of 94 least affordable housing markets in eight major nations of the English-speaking world.

The new tax classification of properties that are vacant or not likely to be long-term residences helps to ease these problems by: (1) encouraging existing owners to rent or sell vacant housing stock for use as homes for local residents; (2) increasing the City's supply of homes to better meet demand and reduce market pressures that cause high and unaffordable housing prices; and (3) raising funds for affordable housing solutions.

The new classification could help to convert existing investment properties into housing for local residents without the need for costly construction, long delays for development and permitting, and the acquisition of more land. Taxes collected from these properties could increase the affordable housing stock for residents by encouraging long-term rentals and providing funds for the construction of new affordable housing.
